BIOGRAPHY

Théodore Hugonnier is a director of photography based in Paris.

After studying the history of art and cinematography in London, Théodore moved back to Paris and started working with clients in fashion, beauty and for music videos. He's currently working with brands such as Chanel, Louis Vuitton, Dior, Lancôme, l'Oréal, Valentino, Off-White ... and directors such as Axel Morin, Carlijn Jacobs, Nicolas Kantor, Helmi, Daniel Micah Cox, Rémi Lamandé and Samuel Rixon.

At the same time, he developed his knowledge on music videos, for instance with 'Introduction' by Hamza, directed by Théo Asciale, 'Replay' by Kimbra and 'Pause x Kiss' by Eddy de Pretto and Yseult directed by Colin Solal Cardo. He's also collaborated on films with artists such as Oliver Béer or with his sister, the artist Marine Hugonnier. Their work was exposed during an exhibition at the Jeu de Paume museum and the Guggenheim of Bilbao in 2022.

He collaborated on Marco Novoa's first short film 'Familiar' bound for festivals in 2024 and on Fanny Ardant's medium-length film.

Fascinated by American and independent European cinema, from David Lynch to Elem Klimov, Scorsese to Hanneke or independent Korean cinema, Théodore is also inspired by many painters such as Gerhard Richter, John Martin, Bruegel, Hammershoi and photographers like Hiroshi Sugimoto and Ansel Adams. Théodore Hugonnier is also attracted by original projects with a cinematographical identity giving him the opportunity to collaborate with artists and directors which capitalises his thirst for research and imagery.
