BIOGRAPHY

Born in France, it was after having practiced architecture and the visual arts in Montreal that Julien Meurice entered ESRA in Paris. Although already experienced as an electrician and chief electrician, it was after his training that he learned his skills on various projects. He is now photographing various films, in advertising as well as in fiction, documentaries and music videos.

After collaborating on the film La Horde, with Benjamin Rocher and Yannick Dahan, Julien signed the photography for several fiction projects, including the feature films La Cité Rose and Mon Frère by Julien Abraham, the Caïd series by Ange Basterga and Nicolas Lopez, on Netflix and more recently the feature film Niko by Julien Birban Levy, shooted in South Korea.

Always in order to put his talent at the service of the director, Julien Meurice also collaborates in the framing and in the light of advertisements produced by Fleur and Manu, Adrien Armanet, or even Benjamin Parent. He also has developed his creativity on numerous music videos for artists such as Hawk House, Ayo, Dépêche Mode, Scratch Massive or even Mø.

For him, observation is the first sense that allows creation, from lighting to framing. Close to an artistically realistic vein, he exploits the sets and the light as close as possible to reality, and subtly captures the snapshot, allowing the expression of a very lively image.

BIOGRAPHIE

Né en France, c'est après avoir pratiqué l'architecture et les arts plastiques à Montréal que Julien Meurice entre à l'ESRA, à Paris. Bien que déjà expérimenté en tant qu'électricien et chef-électricien, c'est après sa formation qu'il fait ses armes sur des projets variés. Il signe aujourd'hui la photographie de films divers, aussi bien en publicité qu'en fiction, documentaire et clip musical.

Après avoir collaboré sur le film La Horde, auprès de Benjamin Rocher et Yannick Dahan, Julien a signé la photographie de plusieurs projets de fiction, dont les longs-métrages La Cité Rose et Mon Frère de Julien Abraham, la série Caïd de Ange Basterga et Nicolas Lopez, sur Netflix. et plus récemment le long-métrage Niko de Julien Birban Levy, tournée en Corée du Sud.

Toujours dans un souci de mettre son talent au service du réalisateur, Julien Meurice collabore également au cadrage et à la lumière de publicités réalisées par Fleur et Manu, Adrien Armanet, ou encore Benjamin Parent. Il a par ailleurs développé sa créativité sur de nombreux clips musicaux pour des artistes tels que Hawk House, Ayo, Dépêche Mode, Scratch Massive ou encore Mø.

Pour lui, l'observation est le premier sens qui permet de créer, de l'éclairage au cadrage. Proche d'une veine artistiquement réaliste, il exploite les décors et la lumière au plus proche du réel, et capte subtilement l'instantané, permettant l'expression d'une image très vivante.
